A Brief History of Mead

The Town of Mead was platted on Feb. 16, 1906 and incorporated on March 17, 1908. The town was named after Dr. Martin Luther Mead, M.D., the first doctor in the area, and brother of Highland Lake founder, “Deacon” L.C. Mead, who had emigrated from Chicago and built his homestead at what is now Highlandlake. L.C. Mead was well known locally for his work with the Highland Ditch Company while that company was surveying and building Highland Lake on his property. The Highland Ditch and its reservoir system were one of the first farm irrigation systems in the country and was, at that time, a subject of wide agricultural study at many of the country’s agricultural education institutions. The small unincorporated community of Highlandlake is still in existence and is located approximately 1-1/2 miles west of Mead.

In 1905, the Great Western Railroad built a feeder from Longmont to Johnstown to gather and take the sugar beet harvest to their refinery in Longmont. The railway ran along the eastern boundary of Paul Mead’s property. It was decided by the businesses of Highlandlake to relocate to this railway siding, which led Paul to plat a new town adjacent to the tracks. Paul began selling these lots the week after Christmas 1905 and sold 75 lots in one week’s time. For the next two decades the town prospered as farmers and ranchers utilized the railway to get their crops and cattle to market. At its peak, Mead had three general stores, a hotel, a combination grocery store and meat market, two saloons, a butcher shop, a filling station, two auto garages, an implement company, two livery stables, a lumberyard, a blacksmith shop, a drug store, a hoe and harness repair shop, a post office, two doctors’ offices, two banks (The First National Bank of Mead and Farmer’s and Merchants Bank) as well as a newspaper (Mead Messenger). Two of the churches in existence are still alive today.

Little Thompson Water District

History and Service Area:

The Little Thompson Water District is a quasi-municipal corporation and a political subdivision of the State of CO.

The District was created pursuant to state law for the purpose of providing water facilities and services for the inhabitants of the District. The order and decree creating the District was entered in 1961. We began serving domestic water to a 300-square mile area in Larimer, Weld and Boulder counties in 1962.

Little Thompson Water District

Where Does Our Water Come From?

Our raw water comes from the CO River through the CO-Big Thompson Project (C-BT), managed by the Northern CO Water Conservancy District or Northern Water. C-BT water is collected in western slope reservoirs and transported through the Alva B. Adams Tunnel to Carter Lake where it is conveyed to the Carter Lake Filter Plants for treatment. Untreated (raw) water is pumped from Carter Lake to the Carter Lake Filter Plants. Certified plant operators manage the treatment process, evaluating water quality throughout treatment. Once water is "finished" or treated, it is pumped to the Little Thompson Water District's distribution system. Little Thompson Water District and Carter Lake Filter Plants strive to consistently meet or exceed state and federal water quality standards!

The Citizens Police Academy is a unique 6-week community training program designed to give participants a behind-the-scenes look at the Mead Police Department. Through interactive and transparent education, community members learn about patrol operations, school resource officers, investigations, Special Operations (SWAT/Bomb), drones, use of force, policies, procedures, and more. The academy provides a condensed version of the training police officers receive, helping participants better understand law enforcement while building stronger relationships with officers. Graduates leave with greater confidence and knowledge to help support crime prevention and report suspicious activity within the community.
